Our Eye Toward Improvement

Good morning, I hope you had a wonderful weekend and your week is off to a great start! Despite what the weather has been dishing out lately, spring inches closer and closer, and with it the onset of our landscape season. I anticipate great things this season and while winter continues its firm grip on all of us, our teams are preparing to service your landscape needs at the highest level.

Last week our team members and I attended iLandscape, the industry's top exhibition in the Midwest. This 3-day event includes continuing education, updates on horticulture trends, equipment innovations, career fair, and the ever-popular landscape awards program. We were thrilled to collect our Gold Awards for Residential Construction and Residential Maintenance, and to celebrate as a team with fresh excitement. It is extremely rewarding to be recognized by your peers for excellent work.

Full of renewed enthusiasm from last week, you can be assured that between now and the start of the season we will continue preparations to ensure we meet and exceed your every expectation. As part of those preparations, as of today there are two additional team members that are eager to begin providing you with excellent service.

We look forward to this year's garden transformations as we work to enhance your lives....thank you for making our mission possible!

Blessings!
